

Michael Arbuthnot

Michael A. Arbuthnot, M.S. is Vice President and Energy Group Leader at SEARCH, the largest Cultural Resources Management Company in the nation. He has worked as a professional archaeologist for 18 years across the United States and internationally, and has managed major energy surveys and excavations. His research specialties include submerged prehistoric archaeology, Southeastern prehistory, and television and video media production.

Mr. Arbuthnot joined James Cameron's RMS Titanic expedition in 2005 for the Last Mysteries of the Titanic (Discovery Channel); he has hosted two of his own television series, Secret Worlds with Michael Arbuthnot (Travel Channel, PBS America) and FOUND (History Channel), and has made several guest host appearances on America Unearthed (History Channel 2).

Mr. Arbuthnot received his master's degree from Florida State University in 2002 and his bachelor's degree from the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1996. He has experience with FERC, Sections 106 and 110 of the NHPA, NEPA, and NAGPRA, and he maintains safety certificates in USACE Diving, DAN 02, TWIC, IADC Rig Pass and HSE Orientation, Safe Gulf, HUET, CPR, First Aid, HAZWOPER, and Anti-Terrorism Awareness. He has authored or co-authored more than 350 technical reports, articles, and presentations, and he is listed on the Register of Professional Archaeologists.